

I am opposed to allowing the Consumer Bankers Association and its members to influence a change in Indiana's No Call List rules as it applies to them. Consumer privacy is difficult to maintain as it is without these institutions being able to change the very laws that protect us from such invasions. The Indiana laws on the no call issue are more stringent than the Federal laws and that is the right of the State of Indiana and all states. Please do not allow the CBA to change our right to privacy and autonomy from them.
Sincerely, Richard Cummins
